5. [REDACTED] CONSTITUENT David Fantera, in the Utica office of Representative Donald J. Mitchell (R., N. Y.), called with a constituent request for a copy of a publication entitled "Selected Examples of Possible Approaches to Electronic Communication Interception Operations." The report supposedly was put out by the Mitre Corporation and the constituent had read about its existence in the newspaper. After checking around, I told Fantera that his constituent could get a copy of the report from National Technical Information Services and gave him the report numbers.

6. [REDACTED] LIAISON Forrest R. Frank, House International Relations Committee staff, called saying he was putting together some information for members who were advisers to the SALT delegation and asked if we could provide short biographic sketches on any CIA people supporting the delegation. He also asked for a short description of where CIA fits into the SALT machinery. I told him I would look into it and get back to him.

7. [REDACTED] LIAISON George Armstrong, in the office of Representative John M. Ashbrook (R., Ohio), called mentioning the newspaper article in today's Washington Post on the USSR defector in Uganda and asked for a rundown on the situation. After checking with [REDACTED] I told Armstrong that the defector was here in Washington as a refugee and was the responsibility of the Department of State and suggested that he call Mr. Willems, at State, to get more in-depth information.
